

Supplementary Figure 3. Principal component analysis of RNA-seq data. The replicates for each condition clustered together, with the first principal component describing the majority of the variance (70.4%) and separating the control from the temperature stress treatments. The second principal component describes 9.8% of the variance.