

Supplementary Figure 1. Local skin reaction following successful intraosseous blood administration, without any negative long-term consequences. Note the puncture site at the anterior aspect of the tibia rather than at the antero-medial surface of the tibia.

